MINERS AND OPERATORS

From Several States in Session at Columbus, Ohio.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 23.—A convention of coal miners and operators in the coal-producing states convened to-day, with representatives present from Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Pennsylvania, and West Virginia, the attendance of operators being about double that of the miners. Christopher Evans, of New Straitsville, Ohio, was elected permanent president, and Edward Bent, of LaSalle, Ill., secretary. The address of the president outlined the principal object of the convention to be the adoption of a schedule of rates for mining for the coming year, beginning May 1st, in the districts of states represented. No business was accomplished at the forenoon session.

A BAD BANK OFFICER.

He is Charged with Embezzlement and Other Crimes.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.

NORWICH, Conn., Feb. 23.—Samuel Brigham, cashier of the Wm. Windham National bank, has been held in $15,000 bail on the charge of abstracting a $5,000 note from the bank and of misapplying bank money and of embezzlement.

THE WRONG BOTTLE.

A Thirsty Physician Thirsts No More.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.

CLEVELAND, Feb. 23.—Dr. J. H. Gleason, an old and highly respected physician, entered Huber's drug store, on St. Clair street, last evening, and going behind the prescription case took up a graduate and drank two ounces of carbolic acid, mistaking it for whiskey. He died in ten minutes, and Mr. Huber, the druggist, became so frantic with grief as to get delirious.

Openly Cutting Rates.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.

CHICAGO, Feb. 23.—Railways out of this city are openly selling first class, limited tickets to San Francisco, in connection with the Burlington and Missouri, Rio Grande and Union Pacific roads for $40, and second class, limited, for $27.

St. Louis, Feb. 23.—First class, limited tickets to San Francisco are now $35; second class, $25.

New York, Feb. 23.—The expected declaration of war in freight rates west of the Missouri river was not made to-day.

A Train Derailed and Burned.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.

BUFFALO, Feb. 23.—A serious accident occurred on the Buffalo, New York and Philadelphia railroad, about twelve miles north of Mount Morris. The train from Nunda to Rochester ran off the track and the forward coach tipped over and was burned. Eighteen persons were in the coach and all were more or less seriously injured. Among them were Rev. S. D. Moxley and wife of Nunda, George Ralston and B. F. Coffin, of Mt. Morris. Mrs. Moxley is very seriously and Mr. Ralston and Mr. Coffin slightly hurt.

Gravel Road Accident.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.

LOGANSPORT, Ind., Feb. 23.—In the case of Henry Hile vs. the Pleasant Grove Turnpike company, a verdict was rendered awarding the plaintiff $2,500 damages, claimed to have been sustained from an accident that occurred on the road a year or two ago. Hile's wagon was overturned because of the bad repairs in the road, and in falling his leg was broken. At a previous trial of the case only $500 damages were awarded.

Two Freights Wrecked.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Feb. 23.—Early this morning a second section of a freight train on the Western and Atlantic railroad, ran into the rear of the first section causing a serious wreck. A train hand named Barnell was killed.

Will Soon End.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.

CHICAGO, Feb. 23.—It was rumored at the McCormick Reaper works this morning that it was probable the lookout would be speedily ended.

SERVING A WARRANT.

The Sheriff's Life a Very Unpleasant One.

From Joel Chandler Harris' humorous and dramatic story, "Trouble on Lost Mountain," printed in the Century, we take this characteristic incident of mountain life in Northern Georgia: "On one occasion, shortly after the war, Abe had gone to the little county town on business, and had been vexed into laying rough hands on one of the prominent citizens who was a trifle under the influence of liquor. A warrant was issued, and Dave McLendon, the Sheriff of the county, a stumpy little man, whose boldness and prudence made him the terror of criminals, was sent to serve it. Abe, who was on the lookout for some such visitation, saw him coming, and prepared himself. He stood in the doorway, with his rifle slung carelessly across his left arm.

"Hold on thar, Dave!" he cried, as the latter came up. The Sheriff, knowing his man, halted.

"I hate to fling away my manners, Dave," he went on, "but folks is gittin' to be mighty funny these days. A man's obliged to s'arch his best friend's fore he kin find out the which-aways. Dave, what sort of a dockyment is you got ag'in' me?"

"I got a warrant, Abe," said the Sheriff pleasantly.

"Well, Dave, hit won't fetch me," said Abe.

"Oh, yes!" said the Sheriff. "Yes it will, Abe. I bin a-usin' these kind er warrants a mighty long time, an' they fetches a feller every whack."

"Now, I'll tell you what, Dave," said Abe, patting his rifle. "I got a dockyment here that'll fetch you a blame sight quicker'n your dockyment'll fetch me; an' I'll tell you right now, plain an' flat, I hain't a-gwine to be drug aroun' an' slapped in jail."

"The Sheriff leaned carelessly against the rail fence in the attitude of a man who is willing to argue an interesting question.

"Well, I tell you how I feel about it, Abe," said the Sheriff, speaking very slowly. "You kin shoot me, but you can't shoot the law. Bang away at me, an' thar's another warrant after you. Thisyer one what I'm already got don't amount to shucks, so you better fling on your coat, saddle your horse, an' go right along w' me thes ez neighborly ez you please."

"Dave," said Abe, "if you come in at that gate you er a gon'er."

"Well, Abe," the Sheriff replied, "I lowed you'd kick; I know what human natur' on these hills is, an' so I thes axed some er the boys to come along. They er right down thar in the holler. They hain't got no mo' idea what I come fer'n the man in the moon; yit they'd make a mighty peart posse. Tooby shore, a great big man like you ain't afear'd fer ter face a little bit er law."

"Abe Hightower hesitated a moment, and then went into the house. In a few minutes he issued forth and went out to the gate where the Sheriff was. The faces of the two men were a study. Neither betrayed any emotion nor alluded to the warrant. The Sheriff asked after the 'crap,' and Abe told him it was 'middlin' peart,' and asked him to go into the house and make himself at home until the horse could be saddled. After a while the two rode away.

Once during the ride Abe said:

"I'm right glad it wa'n't that feller what run agin you last fall, Dave."

"Why?" asked the Sheriff.

"Bekaze I'd 'a' plugged him, certain an' shore," said Abe.

"Well," said the Sheriff, laughing, "I wuz a-wishin' mighty hard thes about that time that the fother feller had got 'lected.'"

JO CHANDLER HARRIS, of the Atlanta Constitution, the best known humorist of the South, was born at Boghgia, on the south coast of Africa. His father was a missionary. Mr. Harris is a Sanskrit scholar, and thoroughly versed in Hebrew and Buddhist literature. Just before the civil war he emigrated to America, and taught school in a village near Lake Teetseelootchee, Fla. During the civil war he served in the Confederate army. He is hardly forty years of age, but has snow-white hair, which tells the sorrow of his life. He is noted for his generosity, amiability, and tenderness.

WEST BROOKFIELD, Mass., has six couples who have experienced more than fifty years of wedded bliss, and one of the marriages was fifty-seven years ago. One of the marriage certificates recently issued by Town Clerk Bush was to Rev. W. B. Stone, aged 75 years, and brother of Mrs. Lucy Stone Blackwell. The veteran groom's bride was Miss Martha Robinson, aged 71 years, the sister of Mr. Stone's first and second wives, and also of ex-Governor Robinson, of Kansas.

HOW TO LIGHT A ROOM.

Harmony in Colors and Styles in Furnishing.

Mr. Edward Russell has been giving lectures in the Eastern cities on household art, and, without doubt, has sent many rays of beauty into an ugly darkness that resulted from ignorance. Mr. Russell condemns the use of colored glass in the table furniture; out glass and silver, with very carefully-decorated china, is all that is in good taste. Ornaments should only be those of nature; flowers, arranged simply in low dishes, and candlesticks with candles, whose soft light enhances beauty in all animate and inanimate things about.

In the matter of furnishing a modest little home he says:

"It is desirable to avoid anything that glitters and shines. Furniture should not be upholstered in shiny satin, nor the walls clad in shiny paper; polished floors, polished marble, and polished brass are well enough in palaces, but out of place in most houses. Pianos are unsightly in their polish, for they exhibit none of the character of wood employed in their cases. They could be made so beautiful that they would sing when they were silent. Decoration should be suggestive, and not realistic. A wall paper covered with flying birds sings 'When the swallows home-ward fly' most too plainly. The birds on such a paper are actually fired at people. Orange tints are useful in many cases for interior decoration, for they are warm and pleasant. Tapestries are Frenchy and bad; they have no base of nature or geometry; they have no feeling of line or color, but are unrelated groups of human beings, wolves, roses, tents, trophies, wreaths, birds, and other objects. They have done much to vitiate taste. Care must be taken in lighting a room. The chandelier, hung overhead, throws all the wrinkles in our face into prominence, makes our eyes look hollow, leaves no nooks of shadows in the parlor, and makes itself too conspicuous. Screens must be regarded as accessories, not the events, of a room. It is too often considered the thing for a young lady to paint three big pictures of sunflowers, pumpkins, and holly-hocks, join them together as a screen, and put them in a room, where they will kill every other object and piece of color in the apartment. It is bad art to stick a picture over everything; for realism has no place in decoration. Even jewelry can interfere with the expression of its wearer, and it is in such instances out of place. We have too much on our walls and in our rooms; too many ideas are expressed, and they are too little related. Fashion should not guide us in decoration. Because somebody buys hand-painted plaques and fills his windows with pictorial devices in stained glass is no reason why everybody else should do likewise. It is fashionable to put mirrors over mantels because somebody was inspired to imitate the long vistas of the salons of Europe. Mirrors are in place in a hall or dressing-room, but over a mantel they simply give the effect of a hole in the wall. Education and study must guide us in our decorations. We must have nothing in our rooms which does not mean something. Study art in the shop windows, the dry goods store, the streets, and the theater. Emerson said that if we go to Europe to see beauty we must take it with us. The beautiful in our rooms must express the beautiful in us."

GEN. NELSON A. MILES, United States army, is the youngest man of his rank, and the only one who has come from civil life. He was a dry-goods clerk in Boston when the civil war began. Major General Terry, also from civil life originally, was an editor in Connecticut. Miles is a man of ability and an earnest student. He is about 43 years of age, is tall, broad-shouldered, and deep-chested. His head is large, round, and full. His brown hair is thin, and curling over a very broad forehead. His nose has a soldierly look. His eyes are clear and resolute in their expression, under very strongly defined eyebrows. A heavy, curling brown mustache shades his firm-lined mouth. His square chin is clean-shaven and blue in tint. He married a niece of General and John Sherman, a sister of Don Cameron. By that marriage he is connected with the Ewings, Camerons, McCooks, Sher-mans, Blaines, Dahlgrens, McLeans, and several other political families.

"Who did you say is to be the next president?" "Oh! I don't know and don't care—I'm hunting for a pain killer." "Ah, you've only to ask at the next corner for Salvation Oil. It kills pain every time."

DEBT!

Is the Topic in the House To-day.

Mr. Morrison Submits an Exhaustive Report on the Payment of the Treasury Surplus.

Senator Morgan Denies the Right of the Senate to Arraign the Attorney-General.

CONGRESS.

Both Houses Resume Active Business To-day.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—In the senate, Mr. Morgan offered a preamble and resolution which, at his request, were ordered printed, and laid on the table for the present. The purpose of the preamble and resolution is to show that the senate judiciary committee has not authority to arraign the attorney-general as it did in the recent report and accompanying resolutions in regard to the refusal of the attorney-general to submit certain papers.

HOUSE.

A resolution was adopted granting the appropriation committee leave to sit during the sessions of the house.

Mr. Morrison, from the committee on ways and means, reported a joint resolution directing the payment of the surplus in the treasury on the public debt. Referred to the committee of the whole.

The report which accompanies the joint resolution says that on the 30th of January, 1886, as shown by the official statement, there was in the treasury and United States depositories, including the amount held for the redemption of United States notes and not including minor and fractional silver coin, $179,887,862.24 in excess of all other liabilities than the redemption of said United States notes. It is believed this sum is largely in excess of the sum required for the purpose for which it is held and that a considerable part thereof should be applied to the payment of the interest and debt of the United States now payable.

Mr. Weber, of New York, from the committee on railways and canals, reported a bill for the permanent improvement of the Erie and Oswego canals, and to secure the freedom of the same to the commerce of the United States. Referred to committee of the whole.

Mr. Elsberry, of Ohio, from the committee on invalid pensions, reported a bill granting pensions to all invalid soldiers or their widows or children who are dependent upon their daily labor for support. Referred to committee of the whole.

The committee on public lands will report favorably a bill to forfeit the land grant to the Ontonagon and State Line railroad in Michigan.

The bill authorizing the several executive departments to exhibit articles at the New Orleans exposition was laid on the table by a vote of yeas 135, nays 112. On motion of Mr. Morrison it was ordered that Saturday of each week be devoted to a general debate in the committee of the whole on the state of the Union. Adjourned.

NOTES.

The secretary of the treasury to-day appointed James McGrath inspector of boilers and steam vessels at Cleveland, Ohio.

THE NAPOLEONS.

Prince Jerome Issues a Paper Against the Prescription.

By Cable to THE SENTINEL.

PARIS, Feb. 23.—Prince Jerome Napoleon (Plon Plon) publishes a letter in which he protests against the proposed prescription of French princes and insists that such treatment would be unfair. The Bonapartists, he declares, were defenders of the revolution. "What the republic requires to increase its strength and prestige," he says, "is a reform of its methods of government. The expulsion of the princes would tend to the destruction of the republic." Prince Napoleon also takes occasion to criticize the manner in which the president is chosen. He says the people should be allowed to elect their own chief magistrate and that the method which gives the power of the selection to the general assembly should be abolished.

The increased use of the type-writer has given startling prominence to the bad spelling by those who use it. There is no blurring over with the type-writer, as you can with the pen, a word you can spell. In order to obviate this difficulty it is becoming the habit in the best society to put the word "dictated" at the top of the type-written letter. This gives the person using the type-writer all the prestige of having a private secretary, and if there is any bad spelling in the letter it is put down by the receiver as being the fault of the secretary.

OUR NEIGHBORS.

Personal Gossip About People and Places We Know.

Judge Byron K. Elliot, of the supreme court, addressed the students of Purdue yesterday afternoon upon "The Influence of Christianity upon Literature."

The proprietors of all the saloons and all the druggists of Westport, Decatur county, have entered into an agreement, under a forfeiture of $500, not to sell or give away any more intoxicating liquors after March 1 next.

Five gentlemen in the Eleventh district have announced that they will enter the race for congress during the approaching canvass. They are Judge Bobo, of Decatur; Joseph T. Dailey, of Bluffton, who was nominated in 1882 and was defeated by Steele; James Branyon, of Huntington; Major M. H. Kidd, of Wabash, and Hon. James McDowell, of Marion.

Thirty-four years ago last Friday the Studebaker Brothers began the wagon making business in South Bend, in a little wooden shop on Michigan street, where they now have their carriage depository. Since that time their wagon works have expanded until now they are the largest in the world, covering many acres of ground and employing more than a thousand hands, who turn out every year millions of vehicles.

"Ferdinand Black, who has received, perhaps, the largest amount of pension from Uncle Sam of any man in the west, was in town to-day, and deposited the full amount received—$10,728.39—in the Lake City bank, of this place. It is something over fourteen years since Black first made his application for pension, and during all this time his friends have stood by him and done all they could in an honorable way to secure the claim. The reason why he has been so long in securing his pension was the fact that some individual or other interfered at the pension department at Washington and endeavored to thwart the claim. During all these years Black has been totally blind, and he had to be led about by some person with good eyes," says the Warsaw Times.

THE UNITED STATES AND THEIR NAMES.

Maine takes its name from the Province of Maine, in France, and was so called in compliment to the Queen of Charles I., Henrietta, its owner. New Hampshire, first called Laconia, from Hampshire, England. Vermont from the Green Mountains (French, vert mont). Massachusetts from the Indian language, signifying the country about the great hills. Rhode Island gets its name from the fancied resemblance of the island to that of Rhodes in the ancient Levant. Connecticut was Mohegan, spelled originally Quon-ch-cacut, signifying "a long river." New York was so named as a compliment to the Duke of York, whose brother, Charles II., granted him that territory. New Jersey was named by one of its original proprietors, Sir George Carter, after the island of Jersey in the British Channel, of which he was Governor. Pennsylvania, as is generally known, takes its name from William Penn, and the word "sylvania," meaning woods. Delaware derives its name from Thomas West, Lord De la Ware, Governor of Virginia. Maryland receives its name from the Queen of Charles I., Henrietta Maria. Virginia got its name from Queen Elizabeth, unmarried, or Virgin Queen. The Carolinas were named in honor of Charles I., and Georgia in honor of George II. Florida gets its name from Kanunas de Flores, or "Feast of the Flowers." Alabama comes from Greek words, signifying "the land of rest." Louisiana was so named in honor of Louis XIV. Mississippi derived its name from that of the great river, which is, in the Natchez tongue, "The Father of Waters." Arkansas is derived from the Indian word Kansas, "smoky waters," with the French prefix of "ark," a bow. Tennessee is an Indian name, meaning "The river with a big bend." Kentucky is also an Indian name—"Kain-tuk-ae," signifying "at the head of the river." Ohio is the Swannee name for "The beautiful river." Michigan's name was derived from the lake, the Indian name for fish weir, or trap, which the shape of the lake suggested. Indiana's name came from that of the Indiana. Illinois is derived from the word "Illini" (men) and the French affix "ois," making "Tribe of men." Wisconsin's name is said to be the Indian name for a "wild, rushing channel." Missouri is also an Indian name for muddy, having reference to the muddiness of the Missouri River. Kansas is an Indian word for smoky water. Iowa signifies in the Indian language "The drowsy ones," and Minnesota "a cloudy water."

INFIRMARY OFFICERS

Found Guilty of Malfeasance in Office.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 23.—Judge Goebble of the probate court to-day announced his decision in the impeachment proceedings against Martin Brockman and Fred Hermann, directors of the city infirmary, charged with making fraudulent vouchers and malfeasance in office. He found them guilty as charged and removed them from office. They sent their resignations to the mayor last week and then fled. It has been fairly well ascertained that Brockman went to Canada, and Hermann to Havana. Mayor Smith refused to accept their resignations.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.

St. Louis, Feb. 23.—John S. Caverder died in this city to-day, at the age of sixty-two years. He was a prominent free soiler and commanded the federal forces at the battles of Fort Donaldson, Fort Henry and Shiloh, rising to brigadier-general.

The Returns to be Photographed

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 23.—The senatorial investigation committee held a meeting yesterday afternoon without Senator Conliffe, who was too ill to sit. The question of photographing the returns of precinct "A," fourth ward, was argued at length until Follette, attorney for the democrats, announced that in his judgment the right to photograph should be conceded. The democratic members of the committee reluctantly accepted his advice and Messrs. Van Cleave and Pringle were appointed to have photographic copies made and allowed three days time for that purpose. Follette urged the utmost dispatch in the matter in order to relieve Mr. Dalton, who, he said, has been acting throughout under legal advice.

The circuit court to-day affirmed the decision of Judge Wylie in the Dalton contempt case. It will be taken to the supreme court on a writ of error this afternoon.

Mr. Tilden's Gift.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 23.—Yesterday morning a letter was received from Hon. S. J. Tilden, directing the treasurer of the Hendricks' Monumental Fund to draw on him for $700. The reports from all parts of Indiana and the United States are coming in very favorably.

A Fight at a Dance.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.

CORAL, Mich., Feb. 23.—During a dance at the rink last night, two men named Kaine and Wiseman, started a row with Daniel Looney. Looney drew a revolver and fired, the ball striking James Maloney, a friend of Looney, from the effects of which he died in a few minutes. Looney gave himself up.

Many Years

Mr. E. FORTER, 220 Main street, Terre Haute, Ind., writes: "I have used ATHLOPHOROS, and found no relief till I used ATHLOPHOROS, then in one day's time the pain was all gone."

Some ATHLOPHOROS will not act as quickly as it is advertised. There is no disease more common and none more intensely painful than neuralgia. Ladies particularly are subject to headaches of neuralgia origin. Neuralgia in any form can be cured. ATHLOPHOROS is absolutely safe and absolutely sure. Thousands who have suffered intensely with neuralgia and been cured by the use of ATHLOPHOROS prove the truth of this statement. It is not worth a trial in your case? Ask your druggist for ATHLOPHOROS. If you cannot get it of him we will send it express paid on receipt of regular price—$1.00 per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us as directed.

OFFICIAL PAPER COUNTY AND CITY.

TUESDAY, FEB. 23, 1886.

The county convention will not be held until after harvest and public opinion now favors a late meeting.

At Wabash the republicans held an early convention and find an independent ticket against them. Early conventions always beget mongrel tickets and trouble.

When Goldsmith wrote "She Stoops to Conquer" he adapted words to a pretty but difficult Irish air, "The Humors of Ballamagair," intending that they should be sung by Miss Hardcastle. But as Mrs. Bulkley, who, as critics would say nowadays, "created" the part, could not sing, the song was not included in the play when it was first published. Goldsmith gave it to Boswell, Johnson's "Bozzy," who sent it to the London Magazine soon after poor Noll's death.

A GASTLY table is to be shown at a New York exhibition next year, lent from the Pitti palace, Florence. It is made from petrified human corpses, the claws and pedestal being composed of hearts, lungs, and intestines, and the top of the table of the larger muscles artistically arranged in patterns. As ornamentation a border of petrified eyes and ears runs round this cheerful piece of furniture, which was constructed by an Italian fifty years ago as an illustration of his system of petrification.

A COMPOSER of music whose halo did not fit on that particular day said to a friend: "To compose a piece of music is a serious affair. If a musical idea comes into your head, you won't happen to have any paper handy, and if you have any paper you will find it hard work to find a publisher, and even if you secure a publisher he may fail to pay you anything for your trouble, and besides, very few will buy your piece, and if anyone should buy it he would not know how to play it, and in all probability if he played it he would not like it."

The President of the New York Press Club has been presented with a gavel made from a large chip of the keel of the old ship New Orleans, which has lain in Sackett's Harbor since the war of 1812, when it was built to meet the St. Lawrence, which the British sailed into Lake Erie. She was never used, however, as peace was declared before she was completed. The gavel is turned and carved, and a silver dolphin extends along the handle. The hammer is made of a bolt of Swedish iron taken from the wood above a port-hole of the vessel.

SAM SMALL, the converted Atlanta journalist, who is stirring up Chicago preparatory to Sam Jones' advent, is described as a plainly dressed, tall, slender young man. Behind his gold-bowed eyeglasses are small eyes, and above his heavy sandy moustache is a rather long, thin nose. His forehead, high and narrow, is surmounted by very carefully smoothed dark hair. He looks rather common-place, but when he speaks he is at once shows his strength. The Herald says: "His voice possesses that subtle, tumultuous quality which makes men listen. It is a voice which invests the merest common-place with interest."

WORLD-BE flax-growers will be glad to hear that an impetus is likely to be given to the revival of that industry in England and Ireland by the invention of a machine which accomplishes the remarkable operation of scutching flax-straw without producing any tow. At present for every twenty stone of scutching flax there are six or seven stone of tow; but the new machine prepares every particle of the flax fiber without this waste. The straw is separated from the fiber by the rapid action of perforating pins. In Lille and the surrounding districts of France hundreds of the machines are being introduced, and it is there considered that the invention will revolutionize the industry.

THE Chinese Minister at Washington was formerly the Governor of a province. After he had made his fortune, the Emperor saw that he was getting rich too fast, and, much to his disgust, exiled him here on a salary of $25,000 a year and all expenses paid. The Minister and his attaches are prompt in returning all card calls made upon them. They make no exceptions. If the humblest grocer should send his card, a distinguished mandarin would appear in person within a few days and smile and beam upon the Washington caller.

MISS ANNIE WHITNEY is much talked of in Boston now as a sculptor of marked power. She used to fancy herself a poet. One day, however, having overturned a pot of sand in the greenhouse, which, from its dampness, readily took impressions, she began to model it, keeping at the work for hours, and returning to it next day with zest, till she had wrought out her idea. Her thought had taken visible form, and it gave her such satisfaction that she then and there decided to make sculpture the pursuit of her life, and began to work immediately and in earnest.

WHEN R. T. Wilson came to New York City from Kentucky he was comparatively unknown. Ogden Golet took a fancy to his daughter, and the marriage which followed placed the Wilsons in the full blaze of high life, and having plenty of money, they were enabled to retain it. Next followed an intimacy between Orme Wilson (brother of Mrs. Golet) and William Astor's daughter, and this, too, ripened into matrimony. What a strange thing indeed that a stranger from Kentucky should furnish a bride to one of the Golets and a son-in-law to one of the Astors, the two most noted New York families.

A NEW YORK shoeblack attracts trade by distributing cards that tell how nicely he shines shoes in the following simple language: "Pedal teguments artistically illuminated and lubricated for the infinitesimal remuneration of 5 cents. Antiquated teguments (pedal or superpedal) expurgated judiciously and resuscitated with expedition for nominal compensation. Of the innumerable foretastes of heaven enjoyed by every patron, I would simply state: From the evanescence of the operation, even to its ultimate successful completion, the patron reclines supine on cushions, which asybarite night envy, in a superlatively luxurious attitude, in which the horizontal and perpendicular are gracefully blended."

ST. JACOBS OIL

THE GREAT GERMAN REMEDY FOR PAIN

Cures Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Headache, Toothache, Backache, Sprains, Burns, Scalds, Bruises, etc.

PRICE, FIFTY CENTS A BOTTLE.

THE CHAS. A. FOSBROOK CO., BALTIMORE, MD.

A PHYSICIAN was recently called to see a man named Antonio Baranta, living at Jackson Gate, California. He is an Italian, about 50 years of age, and earned a living by mining. He was suffering from bleeding at the nose to such an extent that all ordinary remedies proved unavailing to stop it. In order to prevent the patient from bleeding to death it was found necessary to plug the nostrils. Another feature of the disease was the appearance of livid, purple blotches over the hands and arms, and other portions of the body. Even the tongue was affected in this way, and as far down the throat as could be seen. These spots were caused by the rupture of the small, superficial veins, and the consequent presence of stagnant blood beneath the skin. It is not a common malady. The victim will recover.

The Drunkard is a burden to himself as well as a friend; but, since intoxication becomes a disease, it requires a remedy of no unusual activity. Those who have taken Simmons Regulator declare that it sets the liver in action and invigorates the system in such a way as to destroy the craving for strong drinks. The shaky, nervous and distressed should resort to the Regulator as a tonic to arouse the torpid liver to action, to regulate the bowels and remove the feeling of general depression and with it the craving for liquor.

Martinsville has about determined to illuminate with the electric light. The council will visit Indianapolis on the 25th and investigate the merits of the Jenney light.

"The leprous destitment, whose effect Holds such an enmity with blood of man That, swift as quicksilver, it courses through The natural gates and alleys of the body," and causes the skin to become "darked about, most loathsome, with vile and loathsome crust." Such are the effects of diseased and morbid bile, the only antidote for which is to cleanse and regulate the liver—an office admirably performed by Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery."

A check for $500 has just been received by the Young Men's Christian Association of Elkhart, from W. K. and C. Vanderbilt, of New York, to complete their building, which is in process of erection.

Four score years and ten have not seen the equal of Ely's Cream Balm as a remedy for catarrh, colds in the head and hay fever. It works like magic, giving relief at once and permanent benefit. A thorough treatment cures the worst case. Apply in the nostrils.

We have sold Ely's Cream Balm about three years and have recommended its use in more than a hundred special cases of catarrh. The unanimous answer to our inquiry is, "It's the best remedy I have ever used." Our experience is that where parties continued its use it never failed to cure. J. H. Montgomery & Co., druggists, Decorah, Iowa.

DR. A. C. HOXIE'S CERTAIN CROUP CURE.—This preparation, a private and original prescription, was extensively used in an unlimited practice for many years, with perfect success by the late A. C. Hoxie, M. D., of Buffalo, N. Y.

CATARRH CREAM BALM.

Place a particle of the Balm into each nostril, draw strong breath through the nose. It will be absorbed and begin its work of cleansing and healing the diseased membrane. It always inflammation and prevents fresh colds.

NOT A LIQUID OR PASTE. A few applications relieve. A thorough treatment will cure.

Agreeable to use. Send for circular. Price 50 cents, by mail or at druggists.

MARY ANDERSON'S SUITORS.

Stirring Patriotic Pulses—A Story of Ellen Terry—The Shrewd Manager—Stage Chat, Etc.

The mania of marrying Miss Mary Anderson, and engaging her to bachelors and married men alike, will probably go on in spite of her disclaimer. It may be this or that society man, this or that millionaire, every one is fair game. Miss Anderson was found the other afternoon by a representative of the Star at the Clarendon Hotel, surrounded by pretty things. Bits of statuary here—Shakespeare, Byron, and Goethe; photographs there—each one on its easel; and on the table albums and the sundry dainty trifles which delight a woman's soul. The fair actress, who has been described so often, looked a little flagged and weary.

"I suppose you have read the paragraphs in the papers that have been circulated about you and your matrimonial intentions since your return to America?" was the first question put to her.

"Have I read them?" with a pout of the pretty lips. "Indeed I have, at least some of them. Why, daily, some kind friend—yes, anonymous friend—sends me a newspaper clipping, every line of which is a falsehood. I don't read them all, of course. They disappear in my waste-paper basket, which needs to be pretty capacious."

"Whose pen do you think inspires these paragraphs?"

"I cannot, for the life of me, tell. All these reports are fiction—fiction, but none the less painful to me. If they are painful to me they must be equally so to the men with whose names my name has been coupled. These on dits, or what you may call them, have been the plague of my life. They bring ridicule, not only on myself, but on all concerned. If they are practical jokes they are cruel ones, which annoy me."

"It has been said that these reports are used as methods of advertising," the reporter ventured to suggest.

"An advertising dodge, indeed! Why, such a dodge is beneath me. I would scorn to have recourse to such methods. I assure you, I employ no agents, either to scatter my praises broadcast or to disseminate rumors to make contradictions, or to manufacture puff on my behalf. I leave these matters to take care of themselves. I manage my own affairs and employ no one."

"Then, may it not be professional jealousy?"

"No, indeed! The kindness I have received at the hands of my brethren in the profession I shall not soon forget. Two days after the close of my appearance at the Star Theater I received over 200 letters from one and another. A handsome tribute, indeed."

"Here is a paragraph, Miss Anderson, that you were only working to make a fortune and then propose to take the life, having, like a good and dutiful Christian, first provided for your relations."

"That is, I suppose, a fair sample of the reports now in circulation about me," continued Miss Anderson, quite fiercely. "It's false; no such thought has entered my mind."

"Your fame seems to have its unpleasant sides."

"Yes, this is a very unpleasant side to it. If I choose to get married, that is my business and nobody else's. I maintain that an actress should be known beyond her own immediate circle of friends as an actress, an artist, and nothing more. Yet, according to the papers, I have been married a great many times and received bushels of proposals by every post."—New York Star.

Stirring Patriotic Pulses.

Noah M. Ludlow, the actor, who was 91 years old at the time of his death in St. Louis, a few months ago, used to say that the most brilliant bit of his life was made in New Orleans. The theater was packed with keel-boatmen and flat-boatmen. He knew they were hard to move, but determined to try to stir them. So he put on a suit of buckskin, took a rifle, and capered out before the stern men in linsey-woolsey suits and blanket coats. They eyed him critically. When he began a song they listened. Then he came to the second verse, which ran thus:

"But Jackson he was wide awake, and wasn't scared at trifles,
For well he knew what aim we took with our Kentucky rifles,
To be marched us down to 'Cyprus Swamp,' the ground was low and mucky;
There stood John Bull in martial pomp, but here was old Kentucky."

What followed was indescribable. No words could do justice to the howl of joy that went up. The uproar lasted fully a minute. He sang the verse again, and again the roof was lifted. Three times did they make him sing that verse, which, within two months, could be heard along the rivers from New Orleans to Pittsburgh.

A Story of Ellen Terry.

Says London Truth: It may not be inappropriate to relate here an anecdote of Miss Terry that has never, I believe, found its way into print before. When she was quite a child, it was decided that she should make her appearance on the stage in a pantomime, in which she was to impersonate the Spirit of the "Mustard Pot." But when she was taken to the theater and saw the costume she was to wear, she was so frightened that the "Mustard Pot" had to have another representative, and her father roundly declared that she never would be an actress. Her first success was gained in the part of Puck in Charles Kean's revival of "Midsummer Night's Dream" at the Prince's Theater. One night she was tripping on the stage when her foot was caught in one of the traps and a toe broken or very severely bruised. Her sister Kate, who was also playing, rushed to her at once, and Ellen cried: "Oh, Kate!" and Kate cried: "Oh, Nellie!" and the audience was in a state of breathless sympathy. Then Mrs. Charles Kean, who was suffering from neuralgia, and who stood at the wings with her head in a bandage, and the tears running down her cheeks at the sight of the weeping children, exclaimed: "Go on, and I'll double your salary!" And the poor little thing went bravely through her part in spite of the torture, and the people rose like one mass and cheered her to the echo, and next day she had such a stream of callers to inquire after her wounded foot as would have gratified the head of the profession.

The Shrewd Manager.

In all ranks of the dramatic profession, a careless good humor, tempered by snappish but not really malicious jealousy, is the usual temperament. Under the most unpropitious circumstances the actor will laugh and tell funny stories. When his pocket is most empty his mouth is most full—of words. Once upon a time, in the good City of Gotham, there was a manager, a genial man who would pleasantly take a man's labor for nothing, and smilingly look around on a company to which he was months in arrears. A crisis came. The long-suffering actors had a meeting on the stage and unanimously struck work. The genial manager was profoundly astonished—he had never heard of such a thing—really it was quite shocking. His very dear friends—how could they use him so? At last he burst into tears and fled to his private room disconsolate. Now, there was one young and foolish lad, a countryman of the genial one, to whom four months' salary was due. His Irish heart softened at his friend's emotion, and he heroically seized a slip of paper and wrote a receipt in full thereon, which he presented to the weeping manager. The infection spread; one after another the actors fell into line, and the indignation meeting closed with a general symposium, mutual hand-shaking and promised forbearance, by which the genial one was made happy for the time being.

A Donizetti Anecdote.

Donizetti's compositions were often written under strange circumstances. After he had finished "Lucia" he was often seen in the Passage Saumon, Paris, standing before the well-lighted windows of a "magazin des modes," and almost every evening he was found at the same spot. At first the girls in the shop did not pay much attention to him, but after a month had elapsed without one of them receiving a "billet doux," they became angry and resolved to question him. "Why have you been standing outside here for so many weeks?" asked one of them of the incognito. "I look for," he answered, hesitatingly. "Ah! what are you looking for here?" interrupted the milliner. "I seek the finale of the third act of 'The Duke of Alba.'" And he found it. "Don Pasquale" was composed by Donizetti with a bunch of violets on his work-table, the odor of which, he used to say, inspired him with the necessary enthusiasm.

Stage Chat.

EDWIN BOOTH is studying a new role—that of a grandfather.

MARY ANDERSON contemplates a professional tour of Germany next season.

It is said that James O'Neill has definitely decided to play "Hamlet" next season in addition to the "Count of Monte Cristo."

EMMA KILMER and her new play, "Woman Against Woman," are one of the most successful combinations of this blue season.

CHRISTINE NILSSON declares that her coming tour in this country will be her very last. After that she will settle permanently in London.

EDWIN BOOTH will soon play Sir Giles Overreach in "A New Way to Pay Old Debts." It was one of his father's greatest characterizations.

EMMA ABBOTT drew $4,000 for four nights and a matinee in Galveston, Texas. Her Southern dates have all been prolific of good results.

W. J. SCANLAN is 20 years of age and a native of Springfield, Massachusetts. He has been twice married, his present wife being a non-professional.

WAS SINCERE.

A letter written in London in 1692 contained this statement: "Betting is the touchstone of sincerity in England." Such a condition of affairs may no longer exist in England, but in Arkansas, betting now is and ever has been the touchstone of sincerity. The other day a well-known man, during a controversy with an acquaintance, exclaimed: "You are a liar!"

"No, I'm not, and more than that, I demand satisfaction."

"I'll bet you $10 you are a liar."

"Oh, well then, if you are so much in earnest that you want to bet, I reckon I am. At first I thought you were jest a foolin'."—Arkansas Traveler.

Facts and Fancies.

Don't stop a cannon ball, you might get hurt.
Don't set in a draught, you might catch cold.
Don't take any but Red Star Cough Cure.
Don't forget a bottle costs but twenty-five cents.

The superior court at Atlanta has enjoined Mrs. J. P. Weaver, of Indiana, from removing the body of a wealthy citizen, killed in a railway accident, who called himself J. W. Pierce, but whom she claimed as her runaway husband.

SCOTT'S EMULSION OF PURE

Cod Liver Oil, With Hypophosphates.

Its Use in Lung Troubles.

Dr. Hiram Cadoretto, of Jacksonville, Fla., says: "I have for the last ten months prescribed your Emulsion, to patients suffering from lung troubles, and they seem to be greatly benefited by its use."

The $80,000 voted by Logansport to the Logansport, Crawfordsville and Southwestern road have been given in bonds to that company, by the republicans, who now control the municipal government there. The bonds run for twenty years from 1874 and call for 7 per cent. interest.

Best Rio Coffee down to 10c a pound; good Rio coffee down to 8c a pound; best Roasted Rio down to 12 1/2c a pound; Government Java, 20c; Roasted Java 25c.

TEAS Reduced in Proportion.

It is no more a luxury to buy Teas. When they were $1 and $2 per pound then of course the consumption of them was small, but now the price is so low that a good Tea can be bought at 20c per pound then they come within the reach of all.

We are enabled to sell so low simply in consequence of our immense trade. At times we sell two and three chests daily, and buying direct of the importers and selling direct to the consumers, enables us to save our customers the profits of the jobber, speculator and wholesale merchant which is at least 10 to 20 per pound.

Young Hyson, good, 30c; choice, 35c; best, 40c; Gunpowder, good, 30c; choice, 40c; best, 45c; Oolong or Black Tea, 30c; choice, 35c; best, 40c; Japan Tea, uncolored, 35c; choice, 40c; best, 45c; English Breakfast, good, 20c; best, 25c per pound.

THE CITY.

The city council meets to-night.
Sgt. P. S. O'Rourke is at Grand Rapids.
Mr. J. H. Bass went to New Orleans last night.
Mrs. Dr. G. W. McCahey is visiting at Chicago.
C. L. Smith, of the Pittsburg freight office, is quite sick.
Mrs. Ed Simms, wife of the Grand Rapids conductor, is very ill.
Mrs. Col. R. S. Robertson is at home from a pleasant visit at Cleveland.
The railroad brakemen gave a most enjoyable hop at Arion hall last night.
Mrs. M. L. Bulger will entertain her friends at progressive euchre this evening.
Bob Smith and Ed. Hunsaker open the billiard tournament at the Home to-night.
Mrs. Frank Falck will have a company of friends sit at progressive euchre tables to-night.
Judge W. W. Carson is expected to arrive in the city this evening from his tour to Great Britain.
The Indiana supreme court has adjourned until March 2. The Boyle case will be decided soon after that date.
Home lodge, No. 342, F. and A. M., will work the third degree at the Masonic Temple lodge rooms this evening.
The funeral of Elizabeth J. Ziegler, a child, took place at 2 p. m., to-day, from its late home near the Centerville brewery.
Mr. Richard Oglesby, who plays the part of Peter Lucius Jolland in "The Power of Money," is a nephew of Gov. Oglesby, of Illinois.
There was a festival last night at St. Paul's Catholic school hall and Rev. Father Koenig mingled with his pleasant parishioners and friends.
The case of Peter Hendler vs. D. Lee Slataper has been appealed from Esquire Eggman to the circuit court. Randall & Vesey are counsel for the appellant.
The ladies of the congregation of Trinity church hold a high tea at the vestry room, Wednesday afternoon from 2 until 6. Each guest brings her knitting.
Mrs. Susan Sihler and J. F. W. Meyer, wife and daughter are home from St. Louis, where they attended the wedding of Mr. Fred Sihler and Miss Mathilde Meyer.
Mrs. Z. E. Wallace, president of the state W. C. T. U., is in the city to-day, the guest of J. F. Curtice. Mrs. Wallace lectures at Angola to-night and at Kendallville Saturday night.
Mrs. H. J. Wilder has issued invitations to a progressive euchre party at her mansion home, on West Wayne street, on Friday evening. The reception is in honor of Miss Leeland, of Toledo.
The marriage of Rabbi Israel Aaron to Miss Emma Falk will be celebrated to-morrow evening at Aeduth Vesholem synagogue. The event will be most fashionable and a brilliant reception will follow the ceremony.
Mayor Muhler, Captain Diehl and Councilmen Mohr, Michael and Ely were royally entertained at Chicago. They were shown through the municipal departments and find that Chicago is the greatest city in the country, after all.
W. K. and Cornelius Vanderbilt gave $500 towards the Elkhart Y. M. C. A. because it is on the line of their railroad, the Lake Shore. The gentlemen own the Nickel Plate road and might be interested in a similar cause in Fort Wayne.
Jacob Housbach, sr., died yesterday morning of pneumonia, at his residence, No. 38 DeWald street. Mr. Housbach worked in the Wabash shop until last Thursday and his death was not expected so quickly. He was a good citizen, an honest, honorable man and had a host of warm friends. His family is almost grown up and well provided for.
E. B. Kunkle, of this city, was officially informed yesterday, by the Hon. James A. Dumont, supervising inspector general of Washington, that the Kunkle Spring Loaded Safety Valve was approved by the government at a meeting of the board of supervising inspectors of steam vessels on February 12, and is now permitted to be used on steam vessels and for all marine purposes.
C. O. Lynk, agent of the Wabash, St. Louis and Pacific railway at Rochester, Ind., is the inventor of a railway local ticket which bids fair to revolutionize and supersede the present style of local card tickets, which require a large stock for each point to be kept in supply. The new ticket is exhibited at the Wabash office here, by Mr. McConnell, and is but a trifle larger than the card ticket now in use, and is a double one, the one retained being an exact duplicate of the one sold and from which reports are to be made and then returned to the auditor for a check.

Hon. T. P. Keator lectured at Aetna, Ind., last night.
Mr. Will Wilson continues quite ill at his home on West Berry street.
Miss Anna Geise, of 48 East Columbia street, died last evening of dropsy.
There will be a social at the Berry street M. E. church on Thursday evening.
Fred Harding has removed his tailor shop from Calhoun street to No. 33 East Main street.
Dr. Beard, of Valparaiso, was the guest of his friend, Dr. George L. Greenawalt, yesterday.
Mrs. J. M. McCordle and Katie Hewett, of Lafayette, are visiting Miss Mary Golden, 177 West Wayne street.
The ladies of the Home Missionary society of the First Presbyterian church will meet Friday afternoon in the church parlors.
There will be a meeting Saturday evening in the lecture room of the First Presbyterian church of teachers of the various Sunday schools in the city.
V. R. Davis, who lost an arm on the Nickel Plate Sunday, used to be an old Wabash conductor, and at the time of the accident was making a sick comrade's run.
Edith Florence Miller, daughter of Albert Miller, died yesterday morning at the residence of her parents, No. 186 Jackson street. The funeral occurred at 2 o'clock this afternoon and was well attended.
By direction of the city council and on the recommendation of City Attorney Colerick, Judge O'Rourke has re-appointed Andrew F. Glutting, Jefferson Dickerson, Ulrich Stutz, Dennis Monahan and Michael Wolfe as city commissioners.
Minnie Madden played in Jackson Friday night and Saturday afternoon and night. This week she will be seen at Battle Creek, Lansing and Grand Rapids, closing at Fort Wayne Saturday night. Miss Madden plays two nights at Grand Rapids.
State Statistician Peele has decided to make a special effort in the way of collecting useful statistics on the labor question in Indiana, to be printed in his next report, believing that such facts as these are of more benefit and interest than details about insignificant crops and industries.
A large gang of track layers are at work on the El River division of the Wabash, replacing the old iron rails, laid when the line was built, with new steel, weighing sixty-five pounds to the yard. There are now but ten miles of old iron between Butler and Denver, and this will be relaid before March 15.
Sabbath was a Grand day at Simpson M. E. church. Powerful meetings morning, noon and evening. House filled with earnest worshippers and listeners. Many testify to the love of the Savior, and many want to love Him because He first loved them. Pastor and people are encouraged. Services every evening this week.
The Catholic sodalities, of Kalamazoo, have organized a lecture course for 1886. Rev. J. F. Lang, chancellor of this diocese and secretary to Rt. Rev. Bishop Dwenger, is one of the speakers. The others are Very Rev. T. E. Walsh, C. S. C., and Rev. J. A. Zahn, C. S. C., of Notre Dame, Ind., and Rev. E. P. Walters, of Lafayette.
A year ago the Bell Telephone company controlled in the United States 772 exchanges, 191,249 circuits, 101,734 miles of wire and had 104,000 subscribers. Its pay roll was $120,000 a year. Its profits each year are about two millions of dollars. At the present time its facilities and its income are much greater and there is no danger of the Bell people suffering from want in view of the Indiana law.
The shipments of grain, flour and provisions, from Chicago, to eastern thorough stations by the pool lines during the week ending Saturday, February 20, amounted to 48,146 tons, against 36,504 tons during the preceding week, an increase of 11,643 tons, and against 39,837 during the corresponding week of 1885 an increase of 48,205 tons. The Pittsburg road carried 7,912 tons and the Nickel Plate carried 7,912.
Ambrose Geary is at home from Michigan City, where he lodged George Edwards in the prison. He tells that the arrivals about equal the number of convicts discharged from the prison during the past two weeks. There were several turned out yesterday, and, as usual, the first thing they did was to make a round of the saloons, leaving Michigan City later in the day in a beastly state of intoxication. Such men always come back in a very short time, the prison officers say.
Frederick Bock's dramatic company presented the "Power of Money" at the Academy last night to a large audience. The scenic effects are very fine and some of them are startling. Mr. Bock is a clever actor and has among his supporters such clever people as Kate Beebe, Richard Oglesby and others who are well and favorably known here. The "Power of Money" will be repeated to-night and until Thursday afternoon, when "Monte Christo" will be presented for the balance of the week.

Captain Smith, postmaster at Kendallville, is in the city.
The Grand Lodge of Knights of Honor met at Indianapolis to-day.
Charles Keller has been appointed guardian of Charles and Julius Hausenstein.
Alexander Dollarhite will be tried for grand larceny in the circuit court to-morrow.
The county commissioners allowed bills as turnpike directors yesterday and adjourned.
Thomas Gorman sues Jacob Wilhelm et al., on a note for $100. W. P. Breen filed the complaint.
Mrs. A. Salinger, who has been here for medical treatment, has returned to her home in Lafayette.
Judge O'Rourke granted a partition of property in the case of H. J. Simonson vs. Anna M. Studor.
Martha Ramsey sues Charles Hockmeyer for $1,000 damages, through her attorney, A. H. Bittinger.
Jack Geake, the stone cutter, left yesterday for Stony Point, Mich., on business. He will be gone several days.
The days continue to lengthen at a rapid rate. The sun rose at 5:50 this morning and will go down at 6:50, or about that time.
Mr. and Mrs. Fred Graffe will entertain a company to-morrow night, at their West Berry street home, the occasion being the fifth anniversary of their marriage.
Mr. John Mohr, jr., is arranging a program for a charity entertainment, to be given at Library hall in the future. Mr. Mohr will please the people in his selections.
Henry Reiter, alias John Meyers, was arrested with Maggie Woods at Madame Malley's ranch last night. Reiter put up, but Maggie was too sick to appear this morning.
Past Commander-in-Chief Kooz, of the G. A. R., was in the city last evening, en route west. Capt. F. F. Boltz, F. R. Weldon and Tom Sullivan met him at the depot.
Col. R. S. Robertson and Mr. J. B. Harper went to Columbia City to-day. The case of Morris vs. White is on trial there with Hon. R. C. Bell as counsel for Mr. Morris.
Hon. William Fleming is invited to the meeting and banquet of the Indiana Editorial association and will leave for Indianapolis to-morrow, accompanied by Mrs. Fleming.
Orrin W. Smith and Anna Marquardt, Jacob Bowers, jr., and Elizabeth Baker, Wm. Heegerfeld and Sophia M. Moeller, John M. Mahon and Theresa Bank have been licensed to wed.
The indications for the lower lake region, as reported by the weather bureau at Washington to THE SENTINEL, are as follows: Light local snows, followed by fair, slightly colder weather.
Mrs. W. S. Parry, wife of the commercial traveler for Carahan, Hanna & Co., died at 7 o'clock last evening at her home, No. 264 West Wayne street. Mr. Parry has the sympathy of a large circle of friends.
The case of the Huntington National Bank vs. William D. Ruhl, in Judge O'Rourke's court, was decided by the jury in favor of Ruhl. One of the witnesses for the bank impressed the jury, or tried to, that they "had better roads and better people in Huntington county." Of course, this was refreshing.
A sneak thief entered the residence of John T. Friend, on West Berry street, Sunday night, and after chloroforming Mrs. Friend, stole a pair of pants having $45 in a pocket. Mrs. Northrop, who lives in the house, saw the thief, but did not realize the situation. Northrop and Friend work on the Nickel Plate.
The Ladies' Relief Union will be tendered a benefit matinee at the Academy on next Thursday afternoon, when "Monte Christo" will be presented by the Frederick Bock Co. The house should be crowded upon that occasion at least, since no more deserving charitable society can be found in the city.
Mr. Eugene Lock, of the Jenney Electric Light works, celebrated his twenty-seventh birthday last evening, at 106 Barr street. He is a very clever gentleman from a "little German home beyond the sea," and his friends who shared his hospitality last evening are convinced that he made no mistake in being born on the 22d of February.
Mr. Harry Franco announces himself in THE SENTINEL to-day as a candidate for re-election to the office of justice of the peace. Mr. Franco is a straightforward, intelligent young man. He has filled the position acceptably and THE SENTINEL feels that the people of this city and Wayne township will endorse his splendid official career with a renomination and election.
Lightning rod swindlers undertook to beat Felix Roy, of Perry township, the other day. A neighbor, who was in with the sharpers, proposed to rod Mr. Roy's buildings for $15. The agents came along, put up the electric conductors and presented a bill for $225. Mr. Roy drove in for Mr. Henry Colerick, and the shrewd attorney made the scoundrels take $50, just what their work was worth.

Louis Boner and Almira Brunner have been licensed to wed.
It is estimated the Bell telephone company will have to pay back about $15,000 collected in this state in excess of the legal rates.
The funeral of Mrs. W. S. Parry, whose death is referred to elsewhere, will be held from her late home at No. 264 West Wayne street, at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Friends are invited to the funeral.
Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Oids, formerly of Fort Wayne, have decided to make this city their future home.—Mrs. John Gould has returned from a visit to her son, A. B. Gould, at Fort Wayne," says the Indianapolis Times.
AN OLD MAN KILLED.
A German Umbrella Peddler Is Killed by a Pittsburg Train.
Pittsburg passenger train No. 1, due here at noon, struck an old man just east of the city, near Adams station. The man was coming this way, carrying a package of clothes and a bundle of umbrellas.
He was deaf to the alarm whistle and before the engineer could realize the situation the engine struck the pedestrian and pitched him in a heap in the ditch. His limbs were broken, his back hurt and he was otherwise mangled. He was brought to the city and taken to the St. Joe hospital, where he died. He was understood to say his name was John Bock and that his home was in Adams township. Dr. J. M. Dinnen, the coroner, is holding an inquest.
A BIG PURCHASE.
The Odd Fellows Buy a Nice Site for a New Hall.
Fort Wayne lodge, No. 14, I. O. O. F., this morning purchased the property at the northeast corner of Calhoun and Wayne street, from J. B. White, for $21,000. The building is now occupied by the Empire Line freight office, a barber shop and Mrs. Kratsch, the milliner. The sale was effected through the real agencies of Glutting, Bauer & Michael and D. C. Fisher, who give the Odd Fellows a clear title and deed to the ground, which has seventy feet front and is sixty feet deep. It is the intention of the lodge to erect on this corner a castle hall on a magnificent scale, but it is not believed the work will begin for a few years. The property was purchased for that purpose and it will come surely.
LOOK 'EM OVER.
Is there a Letter for You or Your Friend.
Postmaster Kaough hands THE SENTINEL this list of letters he has marked advertised:
Atkin T. H. 3 Kennedy John L.
Bowers Maria Jones Oliver
Brady W. H. Keys John
Bender John Lewis Lauer Anna
Burns W. T. 2 McGuinness John

The First Presbyterian Church.
At the annual meeting of the First Presbyterian church the following gentlemen were re-elected trustees for the ensuing year: O. P. Morgan, Fred J. Hayden, Montgomery Hamilton, D. N. Foster, J. M. Moritz, J. K. McCracken and A. D. Cressler.
The board of trustees was organized by the election of O. P. Morgan president, Fred J. Hayden secretary, and J. M. Moritz treasurer. H. C. Moderwell was re-appointed collector and John Cochrane superintendent.
Owing to the delay in getting some of the large metal pipes of the organ made, the organ will not be here for four weeks yet. Very probably the new church will be dedicated on Easter Sunday. A grand organ recital will likely be given in the new church prior to the dedication.
At Churnbusco.
Some of our leading citizens met on Friday last and organized a society which will probably be known as the Churnbusco Musical Association. This association will be permanent and will be one of the best societies for the up-building of Churnbusco that has ever been established and should receive the hearty support of all. The following gentlemen are the members of this association: W. S. Gandy, president; W. H. Carter, secretary; G. W. Maxwell, treasurer; Dr. J. F. Criswell, W. C. Smith and C. E. Lancaster. The association has secured the services of Professor J. F. Kinsey, of Lafayette, Ind., and will hold its first session commencing May 17 and closing May 28. This will be a rare opportunity for those who may desire to learn to sing. Arrangements for cheap boardings have been made to accommodate those from a distance.

QUITE A PUZZLE.
Why Do the Vanderbilts Want the Wabash?
For the past few days there has been a rumor prevalent in railroad circles to the effect that the New York Central has been quietly engaged in buying up the general mortgage bonds of the Wabash, with a view to taking that system under the protecting wing of the Vanderbilt lines at the sale which occurs April 26th. It is also further stated that the Vanderbilt interest has secured the bulk of the bonds, and is ready to act when the time comes. The report is not credited by the Wabash officials, who state that the majority of the bonds are held by English capitalists, and are not for sale. The fact of the bonds being in the hands of English capitalists would not entail the necessity of their remaining in England or being unapproachable by the Vanderbilt or any other interest. But the principal argument against the reliability of the rumor is the question: "What does the New York Central want with the Wabash?" It would not secure any more business than at present, as the Wabash act in conjunction with Vanderbilt lines from Toledo, and again the Wabash acts at Fort Wayne through the Nickel Plate. The Central has St. Louis connections, and the only advantage would be the western facilities. The rumor is given for what it is worth. It was a whisper at first, and is now a general topic in certain circles.

Monroeville is becoming a religious town.
About seventy-five cords of railroad wood, belonging to Jacob Marquardt, was consumed by fire last Friday morning, along the railroad west of this place. Had it not been for the night watch 200 cords might have been reduced to ashes by the fire. The fire originated from the sparks of a passing train.

One of our saloonists intends to start a branch saloon at Dixon, Ohio.
Rev. Bicknell is meeting with quite a success in his meetings which he is now conducting at the M. E. church. At present there are about sixty persons who have promised to shun the wicked things of this world and seek to lead a new life.
Last Thursday afternoon occurred the wedding of Mr. Benjamin McIntosh to Miss Emma Krick at the residence of the bride's mother in Madison township, Rev. S. D. Miller officiating. We extend congratulations to the young couple and wish that unbounded joy and prosperity may be their share.
Trustee Brandeberry and Prof. Walker are making arrangements to hold a two days' institute at the high school room in this place, on March 5 and 6, at which time they expect Professor Brown, of Valparaiso, Professor Yocum, of Fort Wayne, and Professor Boyl, of Van Wert, to be present.
J. P. Neff, the trustworthy trustee of Madison township, has been asked by the many voters of his township to accept the candidacy for the same office for another term.
John Fry, who has served in the capacity of assessor of Madison township for the last four years, will again be a candidate for the same place.
Professor Walker was arrested by one Henry Mercer, a non-patron of the school, for correcting a young lad, who was in the habit of playing truant. Professor Walker had been instructed by the parents of the wayward boy to correct him, hence the arrest. The evidence of the boy alone would have acquitted the defendant. This trouble grew out of an old grudge that has existed between outsiders and the teachers of the school.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferers at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Relief Fund to be Discussed by Employees.
The general manager of the Pennsylvania Railroad company has issued a notice, of which the following is an abstract: "Attention having been called to the fact that a considerable number of the employees object to some of the features of the relief fund, and as the department was organized solely for the benefit of the employees and their families, it has been decided to call a representative meeting of the employees, to afford them opportunity to express their views upon the relief department. Directions will be given to the division officers to request their employees to select two representatives from each branch of the service of each division to meet General Manager Pugh at Philadelphia on March 2. It is the desire of the company to so frame the regulations of the relief department as to make them most satisfactory and beneficial, and it is believed a full discussion will accomplish this result." Fort Wayne will be represented.

MINERS AND OPERATORS

From Several States in Session at Columbus, Ohio.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.
COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 23.—A convention of coal miners and operators in the coal-producing states convened to-day, with representatives present from Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Pennsylvania, and West Virginia, the attendance of operators being about double that of the miners. Christopher Evans, of New Straitsville, Ohio, was elected permanent president, and Edward Bent, of LaSalle, Ill., secretary. The address of the president outlined the principal object of the convention to be the adoption of a schedule of rates for mining for the coming year, beginning May 1st, in the districts of states represented. No business was accomplished at the forenoon session.

SERVING A WARRANT.

The Sheriff's Life is a Very Unpleasant One.

From Joel Chandler Harris' humorous and dramatic story, "Trouble on Lost Mountain," printed in the Century, we take this characteristic incident of mountain life in Northern Georgia: "On one occasion, shortly after the war, Abe had gone to the little county town on business, and had been vexed into laying rough hands on one of the prominent citizens who was a trifle under the influence of liquor. A warrant was issued, and Dave McLendon, the Sheriff of the county, a stumpy little man, whose boldness and prudence made him the terror of criminals, was sent to serve it. Abe, who was on the lookout for some such visitation, saw him coming, and prepared himself. He stood in the doorway, with his rifle slung carelessly across his left arm.

"Hold on there, Dave!" he cried, as the latter came up. The Sheriff, knowing his man, halted.

"I hate to fling away my manners, Dave," he went on, "but folks is gittin' to be mighty funny these days. A man's obliged to search his best friend's fore he kin find out their which-aways. Dave, what sort of a dockment is you got ag'in me?"

"I got a warrant, Abe," said the Sheriff pleasantly.

"Well, Dave, hit won't fetch me," said Abe.

"Oh, yes!" said the Sheriff. "Yes it will, Abe. I bin a-usin' them kind er warrants a mighty long time, an' they fetches a feller every which."

"Now, I'll tell you what, Dave," said Abe, patting his rifle. "I got a dockment here that'll fetch you a blame sight quicker'n your dockment'll fetch me; an' I'll tell you right now, plain an' flat, I ain't agwine to be drug aroun' an' slapped in jail."

"The Sheriff leaned carelessly against the rail fence in the attitude of a man who is willing to argue an interesting question.

"Well, I tell you how I feel about it, Abe," said the Sheriff, speaking very slowly. "You kin shoot me, but you can't shoot the law. Bang away at me, an' there's another warrant after you. This yore one what I'm already got don't amount to shucks, so you better sling on your coat, saddle your horse, an' go right along wi' me these ez neighborly ez you please."

"Dave," said Abe, "if you come in at that gate you er a gonner."

"Well, Abe," the Sheriff replied, "I lowed you'd kick; I know what human nature on these hills is, an' so I thes axed some er the boys to come along. They er right down there in the hollow. They hain't got no mo' idea what I come fer'n the man in the moon; yit they'd make a mighty peart posse. Tooby shore, a great big man like you ain't afeared fer ter face a little bit er law."

"Abe Hightower hesitated a moment, and then went into the house. In a few minutes he issued forth and went out to the gate where the Sheriff was. The faces of the two men were a study. Neither betrayed any emotion nor alluded to the warrant. The Sheriff asked after the 'crap,' and Abe told him it was 'middlin' peart,' and asked him to go into the house and make himself at home until the horse could be saddled. After a while the two rode away.

Once during the ride Abe said: "I'm right glad it won't that feller what run agin you last fall, Dave."

"Why?" asked the Sheriff.

"Because I'd 'n' plugged him, certain an' shore," said Abe.

"Well," said the Sheriff, laughing, "I was a-wishin' mighty hard these about that time that the Collier feller had got lected."

JOEL CHANDLER HARRIS, of the Atlanta Constitution, the best known humorist of the South, was born at Boghina, on the south coast of Africa. His father was a missionary. Mr. Harris is a Sun-skrit scholar, and thoroughly versed in Hebrew and Buddhist literature. Just before the civil war he emigrated to America, and taught school in a village near Lake Toxotoletoletoke, Fla. During the civil war he served in the Confederate army. He is hardly forty years of age, but has snow-white hair, which tells the sorrow of his life. He is noted for his generosity, amiability, and tenderness.

WEST BROOKFIELD, Mass., has six couples who have experienced more than fifty years of wedded bliss, and one of the marriages was fifty-seven years ago. One of the marriage certificates recently issued by Town Clerk Bush was to Rev. W. B. Stone, aged 75 years, and brother of Mrs. Lucy Stone Blackwell. The veteran groom's bride was Miss Martha Robinson, aged 71 years, the sister of Mr. Stone's first and second wives, and also of ex-Governor Robinson, of Kansas.

HOW TO LIGHT A ROOM.

Harmony in Colors and Styles in Furnishing.

Mr. Edward Russell has been giving lectures in the Eastern cities on household art, and, without doubt, has sent many rays of beauty into an ugly darkness that resulted from ignorance. Mr. Russell condemns the use of colored glass in the table furniture; cut glass and silver, with very carefully-decorated china, is all that is in good taste. Ornaments should only be those of nature; flowers, arranged simply in low dishes, and candlesticks with candles, whose soft light enhances beauty in all animate and inanimate things about.

In the matter of furnishing a modest little home he says:

"It is desirable to avoid anything that glitters and shines. Furniture should not be upholstered in shiny satin, nor the walls cased in shiny paper; polished floors, polished marble, and polished brass are well enough in palaces, but out of place in most houses. Pianos are unsightly in their polish, for they exhibit none of the character of wood employed in their cases. They could be made so beautiful that they would sing when they were silent. Decoration should be suggestive, and not realistic. A wall paper covered with flying birds sings 'When the swallows homeward fly' most too plainly. The birds on such a paper are actually fired at people. Orange tints are useful in many cases for interior decoration, for they are warm and pleasant. Tapestries are French and bad; they have no basis of nature or geometry; they have no feeling of line or color, but are unrelated groups of human beings, wolves, roses, tents, trophies, wreaths, birds, and other objects. They have done much to vitiate taste. Care must be taken in lighting a room. The chandelier, hung overhead, throws all the wrinkles in our face into prominence, makes our eyes look hollow, leaves no nooks of shadows in the parlor, and makes itself too conspicuous. Screens must be regarded as accessories, not the events, of a room. It is too often considered the thing for a young lady to paint three big pictures of sunflowers, pumpkins, and holly-hocks, join them together as a screen, and put them in a room, where they will kill every other object and piece of color in the apartment. It is bad art to stick a picture over everything; for realism has no place in decoration. Even jewelry can interfere with the expression of its wearer, and it is in such instances out of place. We have too much on our walls and in our rooms; too many ideas are expressed, and they are too little related. Fashion should not guide us in decoration. Because somebody buys hand-painted plaques and fills his windows with pictorial devices in stained glass is no reason why everybody else should do likewise. It is fashionable to put mirrors over mantels because somebody was inspired to imitate the long vistas of the salons of Europe. Mirrors are in place in a hall or dressing-room, but over a mantel they simply give the effect of a hole in the wall. Education and study must guide us in our decorations. We must have nothing in our rooms which does not mean something. Study art in the shop windows, the dry goods store, the streets, and the theater. Emerson said that if we go to Europe to see beauty we must take it with us. The beautiful in our rooms must express the beautiful in us."

GES. NELSON A. MILES, United States army, is the youngest man of his rank, and the only one who has come from civil life. He was a dry-goods clerk in Boston when the civil war began. Major General Terry, also from civil life originally, was an editor in Connecticut. Miles is a man of ability and an earnest student. He is about 43 years of age, is tall, broad-shouldered, and deep-chested. His head is large, round, and full. His brown hair is thin, and curling over a very broad forehead. His nose has a soldierly hook. His eyes are clear and resolute in their expression, under very strongly defined eyebrows. A heavy, curling brown mustache shades his firm-lined mouth. His square chin is clean-shaven and blue in tint. He married twice, once General and John Sherman, a sister of Don Cameron. By that marriage he is connected with the Ewings, Camerons, McCooks, Sher-mans, Blaines, Dahlgrens, Molans, and several other political families.

"Who did you say is to be the next president?" "Oh! I don't know and don't care—I'm hunting for a pain killer." "Ah, you've only to ask at the next corner for Salvation Oil. It kills pain every time."

DEBT!

Is the Topic in the House To-day.

Mr. Morrison Submits an Exhaustive Report on the Payment of the Treasury Surplus.

Senator Morgan Denies the Right of the Senate to Arraign the Attorney-General.

CONGRESS.

Both Houses Resume Active Business To-day.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—In the senate, Mr. Morgan offered a preamble and resolution which, at his request, were ordered printed, and laid on the table for the present. The purpose of the preamble and resolution is to show that the senate judiciary committee has not authority to arraign the attorney-general as it did in the recent report and accompanying resolutions in regard to the refusal of the attorney-general to submit certain papers.

HOUSE.

A resolution was adopted granting the appropriation committee leave to sit during the sessions of the house.

Mr. Morrison, from the committee on ways and means, reported a joint resolution directing the payment of the surplus in the treasury on the public debt. Referred to the committee of the whole.

The report which accompanies the joint resolution says that on the 30th of January, 1886, as shown by the official statement, there was in the treasury and United States depositories, including the amount held for the redemption of United States notes and not including minor and fractional silver coin classed as "assets not available," the sum of $179,887,862.24 in excess of all other liabilities than the redemption of said United States notes. It is believed this sum is largely in excess of the sum required for the purpose for which it is held and that a considerable part thereof should be applied to the payment of the interest and debt of the United States now payable.

Mr. Weber, of New York, from the committee on railways and canals, reported a bill for the permanent improvement of the Erie and Oswego canals, and to secure the freedom of the same to the commerce of the United States. Referred to committee of the whole.

Mr. Ebleberry, of Ohio, from the committee on invalid pensions, reported a bill granting pensions to all invalid soldiers or their widows or children who are dependent upon their daily labor for support. Referred to committee of the whole.

The committee on public lands will report favorably a bill to forfeit the land grant to the Ontonagon and State Tinto railroad in Michigan.

The bill authorizing the several executive departments to exhibit articles at the New Orleans exposition was laid on the table by a vote of yeas 185, nays 112.

On motion of Mr. Morrison it was ordered that Saturday of each week be devoted to a general debate in the committee of the whole on the state of the Union. Adjourned.

NOTES.

The secretary of the treasury to-day appointed James McGrath inspector of boilers and steam vessels at Cleveland, Ohio.

THE NAPOLEONS.

Prince Jerome Issues a Paper Against the Proscription.

By Cable to THE SENTINEL.

PARIS, Feb. 23.—Prince Jerome Napoleon (Pon Pon) publishes a letter in which he protests against the proposed proscription of French princes and insists that such treatment would be unfair. The Bonapartists, he declares, were defenders of the revolution. "What the republic requires to increase its strength and prestige," he says, "is a reform of its methods of government. The expulsion of the princes would tend to the destruction of the republic." Prince Napoleon also takes occasion to criticize the manner in which the president is chosen. He says the people should be allowed to elect their own chief magistrate and that the method which gives the power of the selection to the general assembly should be abolished.

The increased use of the type-writer has given startling prominence to the bad spelling by those who use it. There is no blurring over with the type-writer, as you can with the pen, a word you can't spell. In order to obviate this difficulty it is becoming the habit in the best society to put the word "dictated" at the top of the type-written letter. This gives the person using the type-writer all the prestige of having a private secretary, and if there is any bad spelling in the letter it is put down by the receiver as being the fault of the secretary.

OUR NEIGHBORS.

Personal Gossip About People and Places We Know.

Judge Byron K. Elliot, of the supreme court, addressed the students of Purdue yesterday afternoon upon "The Influence of Christianity upon Literature."

The proprietors of all the saloons and all the druggists of Westport, Decatur county, have entered into an agreement, under a forfeiture of $500, not to sell or give away any more intoxicating liquors after March 1 next.

Five gentlemen in the Eleventh district have announced that they will enter the race for congress during the approaching canvass. They are Judge Rohr, of Decatur; Joseph T. Dailey, of Bluffton, who was committed in 1882 and was defeated by Steele; James Brannon, of Huntington; Major M. H. Kidd, of Wabash, and Hon. James McDowell, of Marion.

Thirty-four years ago last Friday the Studebaker Brothers began the wagon making business in South Bend, in a little wooden shop on Michigan street, where they now have their carriage depository. Since that time their wagon works have expanded until now they are the largest in the world, covering many acres of ground and employing more than a thousand hands, who turn out every year millions of vehicles.

"Ferdinand Black, who has received, perhaps, the largest amount of pension from Uncle Sam of any man in the west, was in town to-day, and deposited the full amount received—$10,728.30—in the Lake City bank, of this place. It is something over fourteen years since Black first made his application for pension, and during all this time his friends have stood by him and done all they could in an honorable way to secure the claim. The reason why he has been so long in securing his pension was the fact that some individual or other interfered at the pension department at Washington and endeavored to thwart the claim. During all these years Black has been totally blind, and he had to be led about by some person with good eyes," says the Warsaw Times.

THE UNITED STATES AND THEIR NAMES.

Maine takes its name from the Province of Maine, in France, and was so called in compliment to the Queen of Charles I., Henrietta, its owner. New Hampshire, first called Linconia, from Hampshire, England. Vermont from the Green Mountains (French, verd mont). Massachusetts from the Indian language, signifying the country about the great hills. Rhode Island gets its name from the fancied resemblance of the island to that of Rhodes in the ancient Levant. Connecticut was Mohegan, spelled originally Quon-chagant, signifying "a long river." New York was so named as a compliment to the Duke of York, whose brother, Charles II., granted him that territory. New Jersey was named by one of its original proprietors, Sir George Carter, after the island of Jersey in the British Channel, of which he was Governor. Pennsylvania, as is generally known, takes its name from William Penn, and the word "sylvania," meaning woods. Delaware derives its name from Thomas West, Lord De la Ware, Governor of Virginia. Maryland receives its name from the Queen of Charles I., Henrietta Maria. Virginia got its name from Queen Elizabeth, unmarried, or Virgin Queen. The Carolinas were named in honor of Charles I., and Georgia in honor of George II. Florida gets its name from Kanunas de Flores, or "Feast of the Flowers." Alabama comes from Greek words, signifying "the land of rest." Louisiana was so named in honor of Louis XIV. Mississippi derived its name from that of the great river, which is, in the Natchez tongue, "The Father of Waters." Arkansas is derived from the Indian word Kansas, "smoky waters," with the French prefix of "ark," a bow. Tennessee is an Indian name, meaning "The river with a big bend." Kentucky is also an Indian name—"Kain-tuk-so," signifying "at the head of the river." Ohio is the Swamee name for "The beautiful river." Michigan's name was derived from the lake, the Indian name for fish weir, or trap, which the shape of the lake suggested. Indiana's name came from that of the Indians. Illinois is derived from the word "Illini" (men) and the French affix "ois," making "Tribes of men." Wisconsin's name is said to be the Indian name for a "wild, rushing channel." Missouri is also an Indian name for muddy, having reference to the mudiness of the Missouri River. Kansas is an Indian word for smoky water. Iowa signifies in the Indian language "The drowsy ones," and Minnesota "a cloudy water."

FLED!

From the Iron Hand of Justice.

The Fugitive Cincinnati Infirmary Directors Detected in Crooked Work.

The Returns of Precinct 'A' Photographed by the Ohio Investigating Committee.

INFIRMARY OFFICERS

Found Guilty of Malfeasance in Office.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.
CINCINNATI, Feb. 23.—Judge Gooble of the probate court to-day announced his decision in the impeachment proceedings against Martin Brockman and Fred Hermann, directors of the city infirmary, charged with making fraudulent vouchers and malfeasance in office. He found them guilty as charged and removed them from office. They sent their resignations to the mayor last week and then fled. It has been fairly well ascertained that Brockman went to Canada and Hermann to Havana. Mayor Smith refused to accept their resignations.

A PICTURE.

As Taken of Precinct 'A,' Fourth Ward.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.
CINCINNATI, Feb. 23.—The senate committee investigating the October elections has had the poll book and tally-sheet of precinct "A," 4th ward, photographed.

GENERAL CAVENDER.

The Commander at Shiloh Dead.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.
ST. LOUIS, Feb. 23.—John S. Cavender died in this city to-day, at the age of sixty-two years. He was a prominent free soldier and commanded the federal forces at the battles of Fort Donaldson, Fort Henry and Shiloh, rising to brigadier general.

The Returns to be Photographed

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.
CINCINNATI, Feb. 23.—The senatorial investigation committee held a meeting yesterday afternoon without Senator Coulter, who was too ill to sit. The question of photographing the returns of precinct "A," fourth ward, was argued at length until Follette, attorney for the democrats, announced that in his judgment the right to photograph should be conceded. The democratic members of the committee reluctantly accepted his advice and Messrs. Van Cleaf and Tringlo were appointed to have photographic copies made and allowed three days time for that purpose. Follette urged the utmost dispatch in the matter in order to relieve Mr. Dalton, who, he said, has been acting throughout under legal advice.

The circuit court to-day affirmed the decision of Judge Wylie in the Dalton contempt case. It will be taken to the supreme court on a writ of error this afternoon.

Mr. Tilden's Gift.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.
INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 23.—Yesterday morning a letter was received from Hon. S. J. Tilden, directing the treasurer of the Hendricks' Monumental Fund to draw on him for $700. The reports from all parts of Indiana and the United States are coming in very favorably.

A Fight at a Dance.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.
CONANT, Mich., Feb. 23.—During a dance at the rink last night, two men named Kaine and Wiseman, started a row with Daniel Looney. Looney drew a revolver and fired, the ball striking James Maloney, a friend of Looney, from the effects of which he died in a few minutes. Looney gave himself up.
